BACK TO BASICS: healing racism and discrimination through community living

The Human Rights Forum, presented by UNACanada – Calgary Branch, is an excellent platform for sharing experiences, knowledge, and the practical solutions necessary to address issues of racism and discrimination. Through our Back to Basics panel discussions, we aim to provide important information on how our life-support systems function in Canada, highlight challenges that may negatively affect our multicultural population, and articulate opportunities to overcome these challenges in sustainable ways.
