Dear Wendy,

RE: Response to COVID-19

We understand the evolving nature of the COVID-19 situation and its unique challenges, but we would like to see all employers be proactive instead of reactive in dealing with it. The consequences of not acting boldly, decisively, and immediately are too grave to imagine.

The unionized curbside workers at Concorde Baggage Services have been on the frontlines of this challenge since its arrival in Calgary and have been some of the first to treat passengers with compassion while providing at steadying at the airport. Frankly, long before this pandemic struck society, members working on the curb were already exposed to fumes from vehicles, angry and sometimes violent drivers and passengers. This pandemic has left these people and their health even more exposed.

Our Union is formally requesting updates and additional information on Concorde Baggage Services along with the YYC Airport Authority with respect to COVID-19 policies and emergency preparedness plans. As we have discussed this in many of our recent calls. We would still like to see a more fulsome policy on all items related to COVID-19 as property, including compensation protocols, recall extension and that the employer continue to provide their portion benefit premiums for workers that have been laid off. We encourage you to seriously consider bringing back all workers who have been laid off in the last 3 weeks, if any of the recently announced government program can assist in you doing so. We also implore you to offer a wage premium of 5 dollars an hour to help remove some of the financial stress all workers are feeling.

We are concerned about the safety and well-being of your employees and passengers, and we see this as the utmost priority for all. The airport has recently seen layoffs take place. While the Union has appreciated your candour and communication through the early process, we hope that we can continue to communicate at the earliest awareness of changes being implemented by the airport authority this we allow us to continue to act in good faith and in the parameters of the agreement we have only very recently ratified.

Supports for Your Employees

Given the extraordinary circumstances our members are facing both at work and at home, we are asking all employers who are continuing to operate to provide the following immediate supports to all employees:

Respect our members

Our members are frontline workers and heroes. Please be kind to our members and take all necessary measures to ensure a culture of respect in your workplace. Every subsequent request contained in this letter is an elaboration on what we mean by “respect.”

We ask for your commitment to zero tolerance policies for guest abuse of employees and that you and the airport authority demonstrate that commitment by placing additional signage where customers interact with employees and where it can be seen by guests and passengers alike.

Right to stay home and suspension of punitive disciplinary measures

Employees have lives outside of their work. We are in a unique circumstance, and employees are under unprecedented pressure to balance attendance at work with social distancing, staying home when sick, and fulfilling the role of the caregiver.

Please respect employees’ right to stay home for reasons emerging out of COVID-19, be they for health reasons, feelings of anxiety caused by the pandemic, or the need to care for a loved one.

We call on all employers to provide immediate accommodation for employees impacted by school and daycare closures. Furthermore, we assert that, irrespective of collective agreement provisions, all overtime should be voluntary for employees.

We also call for the immediate waiving of all sick note requirements for employees.

Proactive Health and Safety approach

We remind you that, even during this unique time, employers have legal and statutory obligations to ensure the health and safety of their employees, which includes ensuring all employees are informed of all workplace rights, obligations, policies, and rules.

We ask that, you immediately implement a proactive health and safety approach commensurate with the unique situation we are facing, which must include:

- The immediate provision of Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) to all employees who may be at risk. PPE may include things like disposable gloves for staff, disinfectant spray, wipes, hand sanitizers, and in some higher-risk settings, masks and/or face shields.
- Increased sanitizing of all surfaces, particularly door handles, rest rooms, railings, tables, counters, restrooms, and lunch room areas.
- Immediate accommodations for elderly and immune-compromised staff

- Emergency Health and Safety meetings in all departments to ensure all employees are fully apprised of COVID-19 policies and safety protocols.
- Clear communication to customers on safety protocols and that abusive behaviour will not be tolerated.
- We re-affirm that all employees have the right to refuse unsafe work, consistent with occupational health and safety laws.

Financial Assistance for employees

Employers are uniquely positioned to play a critical role in our societal response to this pandemic. As a matter of social responsibility, employers have an obligation to ensure that no employee should have to choose between paying their bills and putting their coworkers or the public at risk.

We request that all employees have their recall rights extended until the COVID-19 risk is over, the closure requirement is lifted, or one year (whichever period is longer).

We request the immediate implementation of the following financial supports for all employees for the duration of the COVID-19 risk when employees are returned to work and there is an inevitable increase in business, appending the following language to the collective agreement:

Public Health Risk Relief

For the duration of the public health risk, employees who cannot work due to self-isolation, quarantine, personal illness or illness of a loved one, or childcare requirements caused by school closures shall continue to receive pay as if they continued to work (through whatever combination of STD or EI benefits and employer top up is necessary to accomplish this objective).

For the duration of the public health risk, in recognition of the increased risk associated with interacting with coworkers and/or the public, employees who work shall receive the greater of the following applicable rates as a premium:

- The top rate of pay in the collective agreement; and/or
- A flat rate premium of five (5) dollars per hour for all hours worked.

Health benefits

Access to health benefits has never been so important to so many. We are calling on all employers, including employer or union trustees, to instruct all benefit plan providers to immediately all that may apply:

- waive all waiting periods applicable to access to benefits,
- suspend all disqualification rules relating to time worked, and
- waive all eligibility requirements applicable to short-term and/or long-term disability benefits for all employees

We are calling on all employers who do not already provide short-term disability benefits to all of their employees to immediately extend such eligibility to all employees, regardless of the hours they work.

Sensible Approach to Labour Relations

We have a collective agreement

Our collective agreement is as important as any law currently impacting your business. We are sure you would agree that respect for the rule of law should be upheld during this unique time.

We remind you that our existing collective agreement remains in full force and effect and that we are closely monitoring adherence to it. Where there are circumstances that require flexibility on the part of the union, it will only be granted through the expressed written consent of our President, Secretary-Treasurer, or their designate.

Suspension of all grievance time limits

This circumstance is disruptive in many ways. We are hereby requesting the immediate suspension of all grievance time limits and their application to both parties in the collective agreement.

Transparency around the sharing of information

People are currently under a lot of pressure, and we all have a job to do. Issues arising during this timeframe may continue to exist well into the future. We are requesting that in addition to all the disclosure we have requested in bargaining, you also share all COVID-19 and related policies or operational change information that may be relevant to us, pursuant to our collective bargaining relationship, so that these issues don't become on-going concerns.

We will visit when necessary

Consistent with the advice of health authorities and government orders, union representatives will be scaling back their physical presence in many workplaces. However, should circumstances emerge that require the presence of a union representative, our staff will attend upon the workplace to continue to provide the support our members need.

Please be advised that we intend to continue to be there for our members. We are exploring ways in which we can do that in a way that is safe, sensible, and consistent with the advice of the authorities.

Questions

At this time, we have the following questions that we hope will commence a dialogue that will be helpful for everyone:

1. Can you please identify any of the above requests that you would be prepared to implement immediately, and which will require further discussion? Please advise when you will be available to discuss these items.
2. During the shutdown or scaling back of operations will you provide supports to employees as noted above?
3. Will you join us in our efforts to lobby governments to provide supports for workers through this period?
4. Does Concorde foresee the full removal of services at YYC? The Union is of course interested in any and all conceptual plans that Concorde may have for fulfilling their contract at YYC as it stands now and into the future.

We understand the evolving nature of this situation and the unique challenges it has created. It is our view that the only way to confront the pandemic is as a social system – one that includes the cooperation and functioning of all component parts (governments, employers, and unions) working in solidarity for the public good.

We expect that COVID-19 will remain a concern, and so we put forward the above positions to ensure that, as employees do resume their work, they can do so in a workplace that respects the elevated risk of transmission inherent in the service industry, where employees are required to interact with the public, and provides compensation commensurate with that elevated level of risk.

We await your reply to these urgent requests.

Sincerely,

Thomas Hesse
President

Richelle Stewart
